DICK KLEIN, PRESIDENT, CHICAGO BULLS

DICK KLEIN, the colorful president of the Chicago Bulls, knows the game of basketball as well as a housewife knows her own kitchen. An All-American guard at Northwestern, he captained the Great Lakes Blue Jackets, one of the great teams of that era, and later played pro ball with the old Chicago Gears. At one time, he was a pitcher in the Cleveland Indians farm system. Klein brought big-time basketball back to Chicago last year when he convinced a group of sports-minded businessmen that Chicago fans deserve—and will support—a professional basketball team. Thus was born the Chicago Bulls, the exciting, hustling team that performed beyond all expectations by winning a berth in the NBA playoffs.

JOHN KERR, CHICAGO BULLS COACH

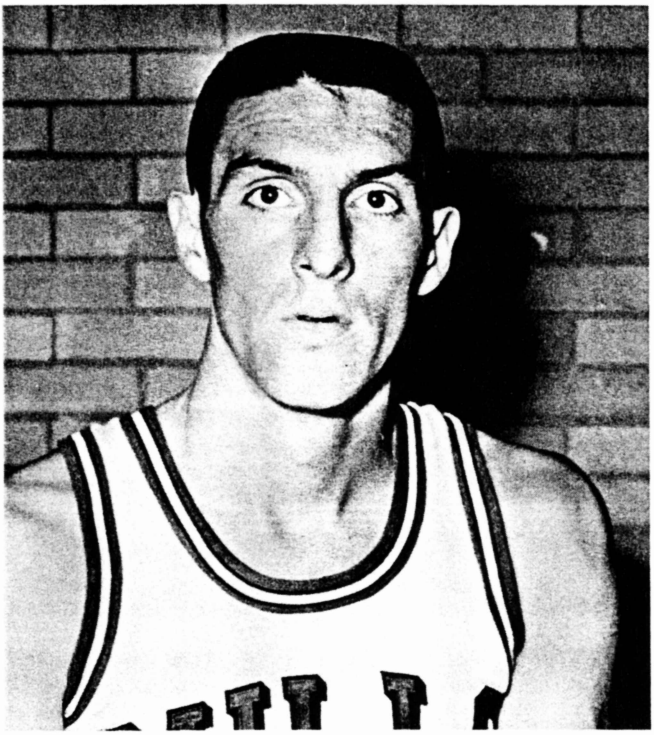
JOHNNY (RED) KERR, the personable 6-9 ex-NBA veteran, was named the league's Coach of the Year last season by overcoming heavy odds against keeping an expansion team out of the cellar. He built the team around speed, hustle, and defense for a remarkable 33 victories, fourth place, and a berth in the playoffs. A former All-American at Illinois, Kerr starred in the NBA 12 years with Syracuse, Philadelphia and Baltimore. His pro career, including playoff games, includes 13,413 points, 10,930 rebounds, and 2,157 assists. He also played in an incredible 917 consecutive NBA games —a record!

| 4 | JERRY SLOAN | 6-5 | 190 | G | EVANSVILLE |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|



Despite repeated injuries, Jerry is second only to teammate Guy Rodgers in minutes played. The league's top rebounding guard with 726, he is a great position player with an uncanny knack for drawing opponents into offensive fouls. Jerry's 17.4 average last season places him among the league's elite scorers. Though a superb guard, he can also play forward if called upon. Jerry was an All-Star selection in his first season with the Bulls.

5 GUY RODGERS 5-11½ 185 G TEMPLE

The 10-year NBA veteran, one of the great play-making guards of all time, set a league record last season for assists with 908 for an 11.2 average. A clever ball-handler and spectacular passer, Guy proved to be the catalyst the Bulls needed to put together a cohesive and competitive team. He led the Bulls in total points (1,459) for an 18.0 average and played in every game. His percentage at the free throw line was an outstanding .806. Guy was an All-American at Temple.

6 JIM BURNS 6-3 195 G NORTHWESTERN

The rookie All-American, who averaged 21 points a game during his college career, is extremely effective in a one-on-one situation and has fine jumping ability. Jim received Big Ten honors during his junior and senior years at Northwestern. He was a freshman at McLeansboro (Ill.) Township high school when another Chicago Bull, Jerry Sloan, was a senior.

7 JIM WASHINGTON 6-6 210 F VILLANOVA

Blessed with remarkable jumping ability and cat-quick reflexes, Jim probably goes higher than any player in the league and soars over opponents several inches taller. He led the Bulls in rebounds per minute played (468 in 1,475) and was the club's most spectacular shot-blocker. Jim played his rookie year at St. Louis and was the Hawks' No. 1 draft choice. At Villanova, he set a school record with 1,047 points and more than 1,000 rebounds in three years.

8 DAVE SCHELLHASE 6-3 210 G PURDUE

Purdue's All-American played in 31 games in his rookie year with the Bulls, breaking in slowly because of the difficult transition from college forward to pro guard. Dave was one of the most improved players during the Bulls' pre-season camp. In three years at Purdue he averaged 28 points a game; he led the nation's scorers in 1966 with a 32.5 average. At Purdue he majored in industrial management and also made the academic All-American basketball team.

9 CLEM HASKINS 6-2 195 G WESTERN KENTUCKY

The Bulls' 1967 No. 1 draft choice is one of the most versatile players to come out of the college ranks. An excellent ball handler and jump shooter, Clem was Western Kentucky's all-time scoring leader with a career total of 1,680 points and a 22.1 average. He had a three-year shooting percentage of .454 and a rebounding average of 10.6. Clem earned first team All-American honors last year and led the Hilltoppers to conference titles and NCAA tournament berths his last two seasons.

14 ERWIN MUELLER 6-8 240 C SAN FRANCISCO

Nicknamed "Wolfgang" by his teammates, Erwin made the NBA rookie team last season. He was the Bulls' fourth best scorer with 1,015 points for a 12.7 average and owned the second highest field goal percentage on the club with .441. Erwin frequently baffled opponents with his high arching shots, mobility, passing skill, and poise. He played both forward and center at USF and scored more than 1,000 points.

15 KEITH ERICKSON 6-5 196 G-F UCLA

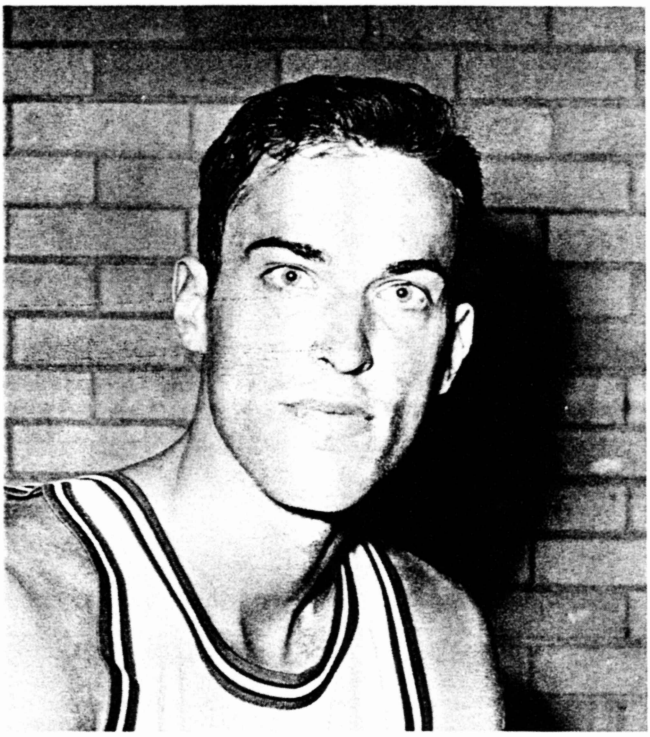
A dynamo on defense, Keith is an exciting perpetual-motion player who can come off the bench and ignite a rally. He developed into a defense standout at UCLA where he was "safetyman" in the Bruin's famous zone press and mainstay on two NCAA title teams. He was a prep sensation in El Segundo, Calif. A good driver and rebounder, Keith was drafted by San Francisco two years ago and obtained in the expansion pool.

16 BARRY CLEMENS 6-6 210 F OHIO WESLEYAN



Barry's scrambling, hustling type of basketball made some valuable contributions in relief roles, particularly in critical victories over Detroit and San Francisco last season. In the NBA two years, Barry was a small college All-American at Ohio Wesleyan, where he compiled a 20.3 scoring average in his senior year. He was a high draft choice of the New York Knickerbockers. Barry joined the Bulls last season.

17 REGGIE HARDING 6-10 240 C DETROIT HIGH

Reggie, who amassed 1774 points while with the Detroit Pistons in three seasons, is one of the few high school stars to make the NBA direct without college experience. At Detroit Eastern high school, he scored 1,079 points for a 25.9 three-year average and accrued All-State and All-America prep honors. In his first year in the NBA, he averaged 11 points and 10.5 rebounds for Detroit.

18 McCOY McLEMORE 6-6 225 F DRAKE

This is McCoy's fourth year in the NBA. He blossomed into a potential pro star during the final six weeks of last season when he began to blend his considerable individual talent into team effort. McCoy's eagerness to go to basket on offense made him a frequent visitor to the foul line, where he was a 77% shooter. His first two years were with San Francisco. McCoy gained All-Missouri Valley honors and was all-tourney selection in the 1964 NIT.

19 BOB BOOZER 6-8 225 F KANSAS STATE

After eight years in the NBA, Bob found a home with the Chicago Bulls last season. He was the team's steadiest scorer and his 18-point average was the highest of his career and tied him with Guy Rodgers. Bob, a deadly shooter with a .487 percentage, is noted for his soft jump shot which he pops in unerringly from 15 feet. He was Cincinnati's first draft choice in 1960 when he was a member of the Olympic team as an All-American at Kansas State. Bob is the Bulls' captain and player representative.
